Revolutionizing the peaceful joy of log home living through innovative technology and manufacturing practices.

When considering building a log home, everyone is looking for something a little different. However, the reasons for choosing a log home are often the same.

Whether you're looking for a rustic, traditional lakefront retreat or a small cabin hidden in the woods, you desire the tranquility, warmth and stillness that embody log home living. True North Log Homes inspire this lust for luxury and peace and deliver the world's most technologically advanced and maintenance free log home available.

A log home stands the test of time—with a “Zero” Air Infiltration Warranty, True North Log Homes take that to a whole new level. Last year the family-owned and operated company swept the North American National Association of Home Builders awards, including Manufacturer of the Year and seven design excellence awards. Through this exclusive warranty and their 22 Canadian and American patents, True North Log Homes relieve concerns traditionally associated with owning a log home.

As the logs in a home settle after construction, most log homes experience energy efficiency loss or increased adjustments, caulking and chinking. “We eliminated these issues through the invention of our patented LogLock Compression System®, Six Seal System® and the KeyLock Air Seal Corner®. These techniques self-adjust for settlement giving owners a low maintenance log home with increased energy efficiency,” says Mark Wrightman, part of the third generation of homebuilders along with his brother Kyle.

Their passion for driving technological log home advancements has been passed down from grandfather Ronald and father Robert who founded the company in 1986.

With over 30 years of industry experience, True North Log Homes have built thousands of homes throughout Canada, the United States of America, Great Britain, Ireland, Germany, Mexico, South Korea, the Bahamas, and Japan.
